How I wear it 'With simple, pared-down basics'

'Chloé jackets take you from the boardroom to a cocktail party' Carolyn Trevor, partner at Trevor Lahiff Architects, wears a Chloé jacket, £275. 'My day could include a building site meeting in hard hats and overalls, a developer's boardroom and then a cocktail event with clients. I have five children, so I can't splurge on anything impractical. I love the new style jackets - much looser and younger than the 1980s box. I hate the idea of having to dress like a man to be taken seriously.' Hot buys: 'I love Chloé's edgy glamour and the offbeat luxury of Prada - it means I needn't sacrifice femininity for authority. I also love the high street's incredible choice. I have, on several occasions, had my jacket admired by a client with a wardrobe budget way bigger than mine - and watched her eyebrows shoot up when I say it's Topshop. Right now I want a Zara military jacket. If money were no object it would be Balenciaga or Miu Miu, but since I live in the real world, thank heaven for H&M.' ▶
